TO VIEW THE WORKS.

The City Water Board, Accompanied by Invited Guests;

TO VIEW THE NEW PUMPING STATION

Above the City, Recently Completed by the Contractors, the Holly Manufacturing Company-Speeches to be Made by Several Gentlemen-A Description of the Complete New Pumping Station,

We extend to you a cordial invitation to accompany us
Thursday Evening, Jan. 25, 1894,
To View
The New Fumping Station,
The City Water Board,
II. F. Jones, Pres't

The city water board has sent out a number of invitations like that shown above to the inspection they will make this evening of the magaificent new pumping station above the city, which is now practically completed and will soon be accepted by the board on behalf of the city from the contractors, the Holly Manufacturing Company, of Lockport, N. Y. The viewing of the works by the board and those who will accompany them will be a pleasant event socially, aside from the hard work the members of the board will have in "viewing" the station. Superintend-"ylewing" the station. Superintend-ent Dekue, of the Holly company, is in the city and will represent his people. The view of the station will be followed by a luncheon which will be served in acceptable style on the spot. This will be followed by a number of toasts and responses by Mr. Dekue, members of the board and citizens, and altogether the evening is expected not to be one ill-spent.

The new pumping station, which is one of the most complete in the country, has practically been completed since last Christmas day, when water was pumped into the old reservoir. Since that time the pumps at the station have been almost constantly at work pumping water into the old reservoir. The walls of the new reservoir by reason of not having been used have become cracked in places and for that reason the basin, cannot now be used. As soon as the weather becomes somewhat milder the walls will be "pointed," which means the cracks will be comented over, after which the basin will be put into active service and the old reservoir retired. By that time the new pumping station will have been received formally by the water board on behalf of the city. The connections to the new basin are already completed.

The pumping capacity at the new station is 250 gallons per revolution—and a revolution every minute. Thus it will be readily seen that 15,000 gallons can be pumped from the Ohio river to the basin, an elevation of 252 feet, every sixty minutes. The capacity is much greater than the old pumping station at the foot of Eighth street, which at times has been sorely taxed to keep enough water in the city basin. The capacity now is large enough for a reasonable increase in the population of the city and community for a great many years. In fact it is such that the water board feels safe in entering into negotiations with the town authorities of Fulton to furnish that thriving little community with water.

As was stated, the new station is now practically completed; and, being in practical operation, it will form an interesting subject for the "viewing" which the board and their guests will be expected to do this evening.

The work on the station was started soon after the Holly company secured the contract in the spirit seen in the city and contract and their guests will be expected to do this evening.

The work on the station this evening a description of the improvements will no doubt prove interesting. The bollers, partition wall and contains the boiler equipment. There are three batteries of two boilers each, all being of the Holly return tubular pattern, of the very latest design. The accommodations for fuel are large, and sidetracks make the delivery of that very important article convenient.

The pumping machinery is very elaborate and includes many new devices in water works machinery recently perorate and includes many new devices in water works machinery recently perfected by the manufacturors. There are two pumplug engines in the well, the latter being forty feet deep, with a twelve foot stone and concrete foundation, with walls ranging from nine and a half to five feet thick. The size of the well is forty-three by eloven and a half feet. Two twenty-four inch inlet pipes bring the water from the river, while two twenty inch outlet pipes carry it to the big thirty inch mains which are to convey it to the new reservoir. The tunnel containing the inlet pipes runs from the bettom of the well to the river, a distance of 90 feet. The pipes themselves run out from the mouth of the tunnel over 100 feet into the river. At this point the river is very deep, and selves run out from the mouth of the tunnel over 100 feet into the river. At this point the river is very deep, and there will be no trouble whatever during low water. The bettom is covered with rock and gravel, without mud, so that the old trouble of the inlet pipes filling with nud will it is claimed be entirely obviated.

There are two pumping engines in the well, which will be enough to supply the entire city without overwarking. There are four pumps, which are supplied with eight valve boxes, each valve box containing fifty-six valves. To form an idea of the amount of expensive machinery now in the valves. As form an idea of the amount of expensive machinery now in the well, it need only be stated that each valve box weighs eighty tons, and the total amount of machinery now there weighs more than 450 tons exclusive of the measure engine.

weighs more than 450 tons exclusive of the massive engines.

If the capacity of the works should at any time prove insufficient, the build-ings are so arranged that additions can be made to both buildings and well at a reasonable cost to the city.

"I want forty cents a ton on iron ore."
[Laughter.]
"What do you want as the price of your support?"
"Nothing," responded Mr. Cooper.
"You are not worth forty cents, then," retorted Mr. Donson, amid laughter on both sides of the house.
If Democrats who prated about the platform were honest, Mr. Denson continued, why did they not stand by the platform declarations on silver? Gen. Hancock was wrong when he said the tariff was a local question. Self interest and greed were local, but the tariff was a national question.

TAFFY FOR WILSON.

TAFFY FOR WILSON.

Mr. Clark, (Dem., Mo.), made a charncteristic speech, denouncing these Democrats who were fighting the Wil-Democrats who were fighting the Wilson bill. He said Democrats who did not like the Wilson bill because it did not clean the Aucean stables should remounder that the committee had werked against the accumulations of thirty years. Reform, like charity, should begin at home. Three men had made heroes of themselves, Wilson, of West Virginia; Raynor, of Maryland, and Tom Johnson, of Ohio, by total disregard of their own interests. The Republican press had sneered at Mr. Wilson. They called him "Professor" Wilson. They sneered and seemed to have a contempt for intelligence. [Laughter.] They said he was sacrificine himself, it might be but he did not believe it. The storm that rose against Sir Robert Peel had driven him from place and power, but Englishmon were now desirabled.

The storm that rose against Sir Robert Peed had driven him from place and power, but Euglishmon were now delighted to call him one of their greatest statesmen. On his tomb they had written, "The Man Who Gave the People Cheap Bread."

The coal and iron combines and the other thievish trusts might pour enough money into Mr. Wilson's district to defeat him, but if they did the people would take him up in their arms and bear him to a higher place. They might destroy a congressman, but in doing so, they might make a president. This compliment to Mr. Wilson was greeted with thunderous applause.

The house was so highly entertained with Mr. Clark's speech that his time was repeatedly extended.

Mr. Wilson closed the debate on the iron ore schedule. Every argument used for placing coal on the free list applied with equal if not stronger force to iron ore. The development of the iron ore industry during the last few years outstripped anything the world.

to iron ore. The development of the iron ore industry during the last few years outstripped anything the world had ever known.

THE VOTING.

The votes were then taken upon the pending amendments, first upon the amendment of Mr. Taylor, to that of Mr. Oates, to restore the rates of existing law on iron ore, 75 cents per ton.

Only one Democrat, Mr. Swanson, of Virginia, voted with the Republicans in favor of this proposition and it was lost, 67-137.

The other amendment was upon Mr. Oates' amendment to fix the duty at forty cents per ton. This shared the fate of its predecessor, although many Democrats, including most of the Democratic members of Alabama, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Pennsylvania delegations, voted for it along with the Republicans from the iron producing states; the rest of the Republicans, adhering to their policy, redused to vote, but when the announcement was made that it was lost, 59-109, they did not make the point of no quorum. Mr. Robbins (Dem., Alabama) then offered an amendment to add to the paragraph, placing ogricultural implements on the free list. "all articles used in the manufacture of cotton, including machinery and equipments."

Mr. Payne, of New York, offered as an amendment to the amendment a reciprocity provision in connection with the paragraph placing agricultural articles on the free list. Mr. Wilson made the point of order. Replying to Mr. Wilson's statement but it failed to take into consideration our consumers.

AN EXCITING TIME.

At 5:25 the first open struggle over the income tax was precipitated and the momentary flash showed the depth the momentary hash showed the depth of feeling within the Democratic ranks upon this subject and portended the floree conflict which will ensue when it comes up for consideration.

Mr. Wilson moved that the committee rise, and this motion, without objection, was agreed to, Speaker Crisp resuming the chair.

Mr. McMillin, holding the internal resuming the chair.

Mr. McMillin, holding the internal revenue bill containing the income tax feature above his head, was loudly claunoring for recognition, while the opponents of the income tax, including Measrs. Cockran, Tracey, Cummings, Lockwood and others of the New York delegation, were as carnestly appealing for the speaker's eye. Above the din and confusion, Mr. McMillin demanded recognition to present a privileged report. The opponents of the income tax wanted to adjourn the house, and the speaker was forced to recognize Mr. Lockwood to make that motion.

whited to adjourn the house, and the speaker was forced to recopylize Mr. Lockwood to make that motion.

The Republicans with the Democrata favoring the income tax voted against the proposition to adjourn and the opponents of the income tax were hoppilessly beaten. If they could hold the fort, however, for only three minutes, the house under the special order would have to recess at 5:30. Quickly, Mr. Cockran demanded a division upon the motion, and with rapidity the speaker counted the members who rose for and against the motion, announcing that it was lost—15 to 95. The New York menstill had one more arrow in their quiver; Mr. Cockran demanded they sees and nays. He could only muster infleen supporter as a second, however, not sufficient to secure a roll call.

When the speaker made the announcement it lacked twenty seconds of the time for the house to recess. In that time, amid a roar of appliance, Mr. McMillin reported the internal revenue bill to the house. The advocates of the income tax were victorions, and ten seconds later the house took'a recess until 8 o'clock.

At the night session of the house son (Rep., N. D.), Moon (Rep., Minn.), Hines (Dom., New Pitcher's Castoria.

York) and Updegraft (Rep., lowa) spoke against the birl, and Messrs. Ryan (Dem.), Swanson (Dem., Va.), Baker (Pop., Kas.), Ikort (Dem., Ohio) and Cammings (Dem. New York) spoke in favor of it. The latter wanted the value of clothing brought in free by Americans returning from abroad reduced from $250 in the Wilson bill to $100.

senator went over under the rules. Senator Ledge took the floor in opposition to the election bill.

After reviewing the decision of the supreme court relative to the matter the senator took up the question of election frauds and reviewed in detail recent mataces of corruption in New York city.

The senator continued: The laws which it is now proposed to repeal and the appointment of supervisors in accordance with their provisions put a stop in large measure to these frauds. These frauds thus brought to an end were the work of that eminent Democrat, the late, William M. Tweed. But although he was driven from the field of his political activity and died in obscarity, his throne has not been left vacant. He has had both successors and imitators.

"Mr. McKane's performances," continued Mr. Lodge, "prove sufficiently that crimes against the suffrage are attempted now just as flagrantly in our northern cities as they were more than twenty years ago, and that the need of stringent legislation, both state and mational, to prevent and punish them. Is as great as ever.

In the north elaction frauds are the dangerous but vulgar crimes of dangerous our more with criminal propensities. In the south the case is widely different, for there the subject is complicated with a race question and

The future of the negro race in the United States is one of the gravest problems to be met by the American People.

The negroes whom we brought here are still with us, although slaverty has vanished and their numbers increase from day to day. They ask that us we have made them American citizens they should have all the rights before should have all the rights before the law which that name implies. I am onposed to repeal of the laws because it is a direct blow to national sentiment and to the right and authority of the nation.

The Vote Will be Next Wednesday.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, to-day said: "In case the internal revenue bill is brought in as an amendment to the pending tariff bill, there will probably be an extension of tariff debate of about two days."

Mr. Reed agrees with Chairman Wilson that the two days extension is probable. The final vote on the Wilson bill will probably go over and all vote on the massure as a whole will be taken Wednesday next at 1 p. m.

Across the River.

Yesterday Dr. J. W. Darrah and J. R. Pickens made a tour through the country in the interest of the relief committee and brought back a wagon load of meat, flour, potatoes and corn meal.

The donors were H. M. Pickens, William McCune, David Thorburn, Robert Cooper and Samuel Pickens. They made the trip in a wagon loaned by Tweedy & Son, and were unable to make the entire trip proposed on account of the rain, wind and snow. This was a voluntary act on their part. They will make another trip soon. The city donations yesterday were: One barrel of flour, W. R. Ratcliffe; fifty loaves of bread, J. A. Weidel; ten loaves, J. M. Watters. Horeafter the relief store will be open only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The Wool Trade.

Boston, Jan. 24.—The leading feature of the week has been the sail of over 1,590 bars of scoured territory wool, costing from 25 the principally in the vicinity of East. These wools were for the most bars. These wools were for the most bars. Texas, Collador and Utala, short staple and dissuited for the estimate trade. There have also been 160 bars of scoured for medium Colorado soil on a basis of about 25 laid down. With these exceptions the market has ruled very dull and uniteresting, with values in rely prominal, particularly on flocca wools. The sales of the week amount to 2,340,30 pounds of domestic and 22,000 pounds of foreign, making a total of 3,47,290 pounds against a total of 1,578,700 for the corresponding week last year.
